

Join our team!

DevOps Engineer (M/F/D)

Start of employment: due today

Location: Poststrasse 12, 20354 Hamburg odc is a full-service fulfilment- and returns-solution for ecommerce brands and retailers. odc combines a cloud fulfilment platform with physical warehouse and dispatch logistic and also offers integrated interfaces to ERP systems, shops, marketplaces and parcel services.

What is expecting you

As a DevOps Engineer (m/f/d) you influence the further development and improvement of our existing odc platform and services not only from a technical but also from a strategic point of view! You are an important part of the team and with your ideas you make an essential contribution to the success of our young team. Experienced experts, career changers as well as enthusiastic graduates and young professionals with a willingness to learn and personality are in good hands with us.

Your tasks include the following

- You operate and expand our IT systems and their interfaces
- You make sure that our software runs smoothly and without disruption thanks to a process you supervise (Continuous Integration).
- You use Continuous Delivery by means of targeted release and deployment processes to continuously check the feedback cycle.
- You assume end-to-end responsibility for the optimization of our solution - from monitoring to independent setup and system operation.
- You automate aspects around configuration, scheduling, monitoring and deployment of the software and continuously optimize all services to support our continuous processes.
- You analyse and resolve disruptions in live operations and make sure that our customers are not affected by outages

What you should bring

- You have a degree in computer science, information technology or a comparable education with (initial) work experience
- Technical problems can be solved quickly and in a solution-oriented way.
- Amazon Web Services or other cloud systems you have mastered flawlessly.
- You can quickly familiarize yourself with complex technical issues, solve them and thus improve our systems and approaches.
- You enjoy working independently and like to take the initiative.
- Very good German and English skills round off your profile

What we offer you

- Flat hierarchies & high-performance teams in a groundbreaking logistics company
- Very pleasant and collegial working atmosphere in the start-up environment with group affiliation
- Flexible working hours and a modern workplace in the city centre
- Attractive benefits & employee discounts (personnel discount at OTTO. de, HWV Proficard etc.)
- Collaboration with a company run with passion and fun

Ideally, you should send your application with details of your salary requirements to jobs@ogds.de. Your contact person is our HR Manager Alexandra (Tel. +49 40 696 35 90 25).